PACE JOINS PARTNERSHIP TO SECURE TRAINED WORKFORCE

Reacting to the announcement of a $340,000.00 job skills grant awarded to Century College on behalf of the Paper and Packaging Industry Labor Management Committee, David Halper, general manager of Smurfit/Stone Container Corporation, stated, "This award is a vindication of labor and management's hard work and cooperation during a time of transition and challenges. Our industry now faces the future with the prospect of having in place a training program designed specifically for our industry. This project will attract, retain, and train a viable competitive workforce for the new millennium." Gerry Parzino, business representative for PACE Local #7-0264, responded to the announcement of the job skills grant by stating, "Union and management leadership, and collaboration, have made possible an exciting long-term project to help secure a viable and trained workforce within the Paper and Packaging Industry. Working with Century College, labor and management are working on crafting an apprenticeship program unique to the Paper Packaging Industry."

TCALMC Awarded $66,000.00 Grant

The Twin City Area Labor Management Council has been awarded $66,000.00 in a State Matching Grant for 2001. There was a total of $302,000.00 available from the Minnesota Area Industry Labor Management Grant through the Minnesota Bureau of Mediation Services. The Council was one of 11 applicants to receive a portion of the grant.

This is a matching grant; therefore the Council must raise another $66,000.00 in order to receive the full amount from the State. Sources of income to meet the match comes from memberships, contributions, conference income, registration fees for membership meetings, and training sessions.

Did you know?

According to the Minnesota Department of Economic Security (MDES) research and statistics office:

The Twin City's unemployment rate in the metro area as of October 2000 was 2.2%; statewide the rate was 2.8%.

The percentage of part-time workers in Minnesota in 1998 was 21.5%.

Female labor force participation rate in Minnesota in 1998 (most current statistics) was 70.1% - in the U.S. it was 59.8%. Male participation rates were 80.8% in Minnesota and 74% in the U.S.

The average annual wage for workers in Minnesota by unemployment insurance was $643.95.

What is a NEO (new and evolving occupation) and how can I find out if I should train for a position that is self-directed or team oriented? (Note: visit the MDES website listed below and find answers to this question.

What is "churning" and is it a sign of economic downturn? (Go to MDES website and discover that employment expansion occurs along side of employment contraction. All of this activity is part of a modern economy.

One of Minnesota's fastest growing industries (1996 - 2006) is the computer and data processing service area. Estimated employment in this area in 1996 was 31,172, but employment is projected to rise to 69,530 by 2006 - a 123% change.

It has been estimated that Minnesota has about 52,400 persons working as secretaries/clerical support staff (employers look for entry level applicants to have a high school diploma plus nine months of technical training, type 60 wpm, and have skills with personal computers) with a starting wage of $7.20 per hour, but an average pay of $11.80 per hour.

Has your organization had problems locating IT (Information Technology) workers? Check with MDES and request their publication: Beyond 2000: IT Workers in Minnesota.

Making a career decision? Want more information? Go to MDES website (www.mnworkforcecenter.org) and ask for a publication titled: Minnesota Careers - Careers and Education Planning and Explanation Guide.

How Does Your Labor Management Committee Stack Up?

To sustain a labor management committee, there are certain practices and pre-conditions. Below are listed some. You can feel free to add your own:

- Training for all labor management committee members.
- Union/management advocates for partnership.
- Commitment to the labor management committee mission statement, norms of behavior, by-laws and a signed letter of understanding endorsed by all committee members.
- Union/management support for a problem solving approach to workplace issues.
- Continuous improvement through on-going re-training with emphasis on problem solving and communication skills.
- Committee members need to:
 - Tell the truth
 - Be fair
 - Keep promises
 - Ask questions
 - Don't debate - dialogue
 - Support collective inquiry
 - Listen to understand, not to respond
- Separate people from the problem.
- Use consensus decision making when determining options.
- Focus on the present and future. Bury the past.
- Treat all internal/external customers with respect and dignity.
- Recognize, reward, and respond to good works/service.
- Strive for consistency and uniformity in the application of all work policies and practices.
- Remember that the labor management committee process is not a "quick fix" and/or a "cure-all." It is a continuous process.
- Remember, too, that worker participation in a labor management committee is not a substitute for sound labor management relations.

The Twin City Area Labor Management Council has a part-time opening for an Organizational Representative. Experience working as an advocate from either labor or management is desired. Experience in collaborative labor management process is desirable. Position reports to the Executive Director of the Twin City Area Labor Management Council. CONFERENCE HELPS CALM STORMY WATERS

On Tuesday, October 24, 2000, the “Navigating Stormy Waters” conference was held at Earle Brown Center. Over 200 people from workplaces around the Twin Cities and beyond attended this conference, which was co-sponsored by the Twin City Area Labor Management Council, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, and the Workplace Action Team of the Initiatives for Violence-Free Families and Communities in Ramsey and Hennepin Counties.

The conference was designed to be a highly interactive event, with participants discussing a range of workplace issues with one another. Attendees learned both about dysfunction and challenges experienced in a variety of settings, as well as a range of strategies for creating respectful, violence-free workplaces. In addition to interactive dialogue, attendees viewed Theatre at Work’s “Unless There’s Blood,” a theatre-based training on the continuum of violence and inappropriate behaviors in the workplace. They also were presented with strategies for positive change from Karen Finney of the University Good Samaritan Center and Lenny Larson of the National Union of Letter Carriers, Branch 9.

The Twin City Area Labor Management Council, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, and Workplace Action Team are currently working on “Stormy Waters II,” a follow-up conference that will go into greater depth on designing and implementing effective respectful workplace policies and strategies. “Stormy Waters II” will be held in late spring 2001.

For more information on this event, as well as other resources for creating a violence-free and respectful workplace, please contact Carol Thomalla, TCALMC at (612)624-5218; Jo Romer, FMCS at (612)370-3311; or Mary Elizabeth Berglund, Saint Paul-Ramsey County Public Health/Workplace Action Team at (651)266-2461.

For more information about the Workplace Action Team, please contact Co-chair Steve Hoffmeyer, Hennepin County Labor Relations Department at (612)348-7651, or Janeen Massaros, Southern Metropolitan Mediation Services, (952)835-5571.

M.A.M.A./LOCAL #49 LABOR MANAGEMENT COMMITTEE 3rd FALL CONFERENCE

The MAMA/Local #49 Labor Management Committee hosted their 3rd Fall Conference on October 17 and 18, 2000, at Crystal Community Center.

The approximately 350 Operating Engineers and managers were informed about Health Insurance trends by consultant Gayle McCann and listened to nationally known speaker Gordon Graham. Mr. Graham’s discussion was titled, “Framework For Change.” The message was very well received. Many attendees purchased books that Mr. Graham had for sale.

This was Mr. Graham’s second trip to Minneapolis/St. Paul and we hope he will be back soon!

December 13, 2000, Quarterly Membership Meeting and 5th Annual Earl Willford Labor Management Cooperation and Partnership Award Kick-off.

Seventy members and guests attended the Twin City Area Labor Management Council's December 13, 2000, Quarterly Membership Meeting and 5th Annual Earl Willford Labor Management Cooperation and Partnership Award Kick-off on December 13, 2000. The program was highlighted by a presentation from the City of Minneapolis Fire Department and the International Association of Firefighters Local #82. Their testimony provided examples that show trust and collaboration can evolve from an adversarial relationship. Please note that the City of Minneapolis Fire Department and the International Association of Firefighters Local #82 were recipients of the year 2000 Earl Willford Award. Following the fine presentation from the Minneapolis Fire Department, Anna Maravelas enthralled her audience with a lively and interactive topic focusing on one's thinking patterns, emotions, and health. The context for the intriguing approach to conflict centered on workplace politics and power struggles - causes, costs, and cures. Her remarks were well received by all the participants.

Twin City Area Labor Management Council co-exhibited with Lake Superior Labor Management Association and Iron Range Labor Management Association at the 5th Annual Minnesota Trade and Economic Development Conference, November 2 & 3, 2000, held at Double Tree Park Place Hotel, St. Louis Park.
